Riverset's Patrick Flynn receives Citizen Service Award

PITTSBURGH, PA – Riverset's Member and Community Relations Representative, Patrick Flynn, is the recipient of Mayor Luke Ravenstahl's Citizen Service Award. Flynn was nominated by Lisa Florian, Director of Business Development and Marketing for Riverset. Mayor Luke Ravenstahl's proclamation notes that "Riverset's spirit of volunteerism has become a major asset to Pittsburgh's volunteer community". As part of his position, Flynn is charged with coordinating the credit union's volunteerism and community outreach opportunities.

"Patrick has a passion for volunteerism; for the organizations with which we partner; and the ability to engage those with whom he interacts to form solid relationships" said President/CEO Christine Chojnicki. As a community chartered financial institution, we place great emphasis on giving back to those in our region. Patrick does an excellent job coordinating our efforts." Mayor Ravenstahl declares December 9, 2011 "Mayor Luke Ravenstahl's Citizen Service Recipient, Mr. Patrick Flynn Day."

The Citizen Service Award was established by Mayor Luke Ravenstahl to recognize community leaders who have contributed exceptional levels of service towards the advancement of Pittsburgh communities. This award is a recent addition to the PGH initiative, which promotes citizen service to impact local challenges.
